

May 2/99

Dear Ms Henley .

I could not agree ^{more} with the petition filed ^{Y 17 P 313} by the Center for Science in the Public Interest (CSPI) asking that medically useful antibiotics be banned from animal feed. At the moment I'm taking an antibiotic, with reluctance because I do not want to risk becoming immune to it, for a urinary tract infection. Also I see frequently the result of resistant antibiotics in the children that I take care of in my home day care business. The routine feeding of antibiotics is a threat to us all when they are fed to cattle, pigs and poultry to make them grow faster. Please protect our and your lives.

Sincerely

Dini Schut

As a member of the Center for Science in the Public Interest (CSPI), I urge you to save human lives by banning the use of medically useful antibiotics in animal feed. Adding antibiotics to feed in order to promote growth can make bacteria resistant to those antibiotics. And that can leave physicians with no way to treat life-threatening bacterial infections in humans. That's why I support the petition filed by CSPI.
